Genesis chapter 27

Story: Jacob the 'Deceiver' (Liar!)

Theme 11 - Jacob the 'Deceiver' (Liar!)

Activities

- Bible story – Read Jacob the Deceiver booklet with children and use discussion questions for recall (eg. see below).
- Child(ren) colour in picture of Jacob stealing the blessing / birthright of Esau and practise writing key words
- 'Spot the difference' activity. Child(ren) must look for 2 or 3 things that have been missed out in pictures by comparing the pairs of picture on each sheet. Then they should draw on the missing parts.
- Afterwards – Explain that if we don't look or listen to things carefully we can make big mistakes that could hurt us or others.
- Jigsaw puzzle – Tell child(ren) to be patient to find the piece to match the picture on the box.

Discussion Questions

- Esau was hairy and Jacob was smooth skinned. What else was different about Esau from Jacob.
- God's promises to the first-born were called the birthright. Who cared about the birthright – Jacob or Esau?
- How did Jacob get Esau to sell his birthright?
- Isaac's wife Rebecca (Esau's mother) cared for God (- remember the story about how Isaac get his wife?) What about Esau's wives?
- Who helped Jacob to get the birthright, and what was the plan?
- How did Isaac find out he'd been tricked?
- Why did Jacob have to leave home?
- Jacob deceived Isaac and Esau. Who tricked Jacob?

Theme 11 - Jacob the 'Deceiver' (Liar!)

Extra Activities for Theme 11

Suggested Activities:

- Re-read Jacob the Deceiver story or Genesis chapter 25 verse 19-34 and Genesis chapter 27 from children's bible bit by bit using discussion questions for recall. Children can colour in booklet.
- Creation Day song verse 7 (The Sabbath). Practice new verse and writing key words from verse with pictures. Discuss questions for Day Number 7. (see sheet).
- Rough and Smooth / Hard and Soft – Help child(ren) to fill in the words and charts. Afterward explain that Isaac used his hands to feel the skin of his son to try and check who he was, but even though he heard the voice didn't sound like Esau, Jacob was deceived because he didn't think his sons would lie to him. Ask Child(ren) – what are some of the different ways we have to check if something we hear or see (eg. on TV) is true? (Give examples)

Prayer Points

- Thank God for sending Jesus to show us what is true about God.
- Thank God for giving us people who teach us to be truthful and trust in God even when it's hard.
- Ask God to help us notice when something is not real or someone is trying to trick us, so we won't be hurt.
- Ask God to give people who lie chances to change through His power.

DECEIVER

Did God ever send a baby to your family?
How exciting! Isaac and Rebekah must have been doubly joyful. God was going to give them
twins.

The babies
struggled inside Rebekah. When she prayed, God said her two sons would lead
two nations -
and the younger one would be greater.
Usually the firstborn was greater. At last the babies
were born.

The twins were not alike. Esau, the older boy, was very hairy and grew up to be a skillful hunter. Jacob was smooth skinned and liked working around home. Father Isaac loved Esau best. Mother favored Jacob.

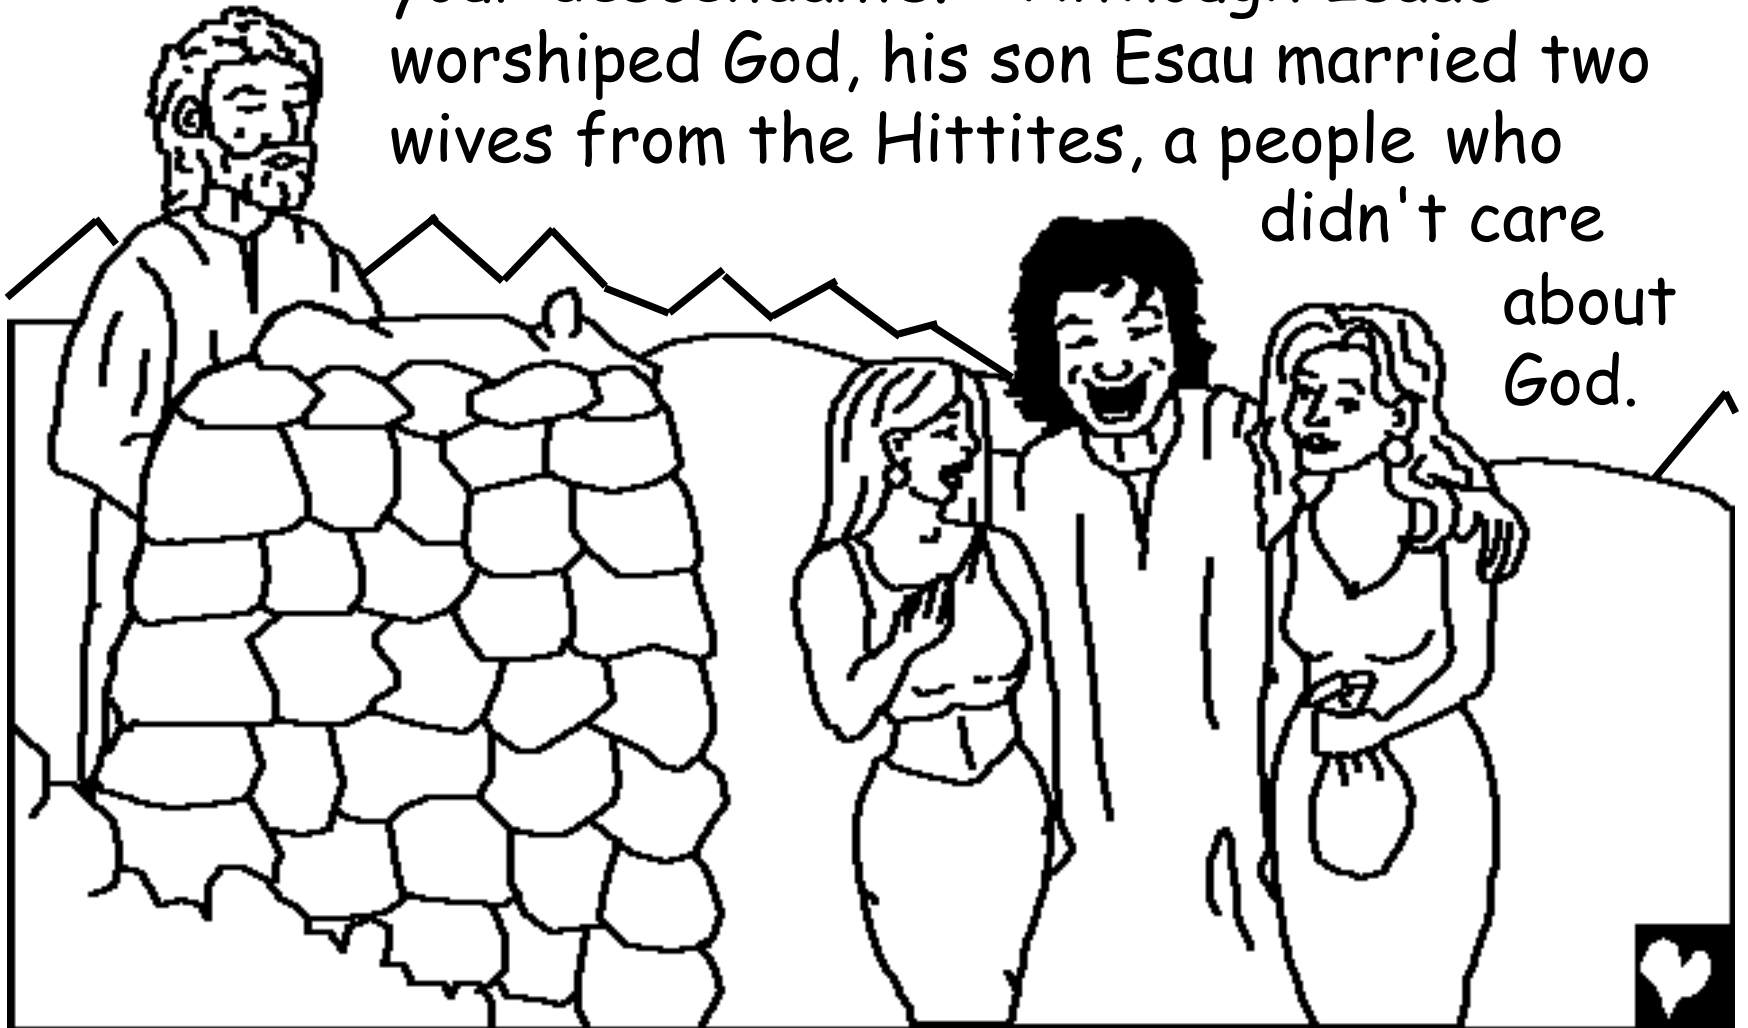

One day, Esau was hungry. "Give me food," he told Jacob. "Sell me your birthright," demanded Jacob. Esau did not care about God's promises to the first-born. He made the deal with Jacob. Now Jacob would head the family when their father died.

God spoke to Isaac one night. "I am the God of your father, Abraham. I am with you. I will bless your descendants." Although Isaac worshiped God, his son Esau married two wives from the Hittites, a people who didn't care about God.

Isaac grew old. "Please bring me fresh meat," he told Esau. "Then I will bless you." This special blessing was from father to firstborn. Esau hurried out to hunt. But Rebekah had overheard. She wanted Jacob to be blessed.

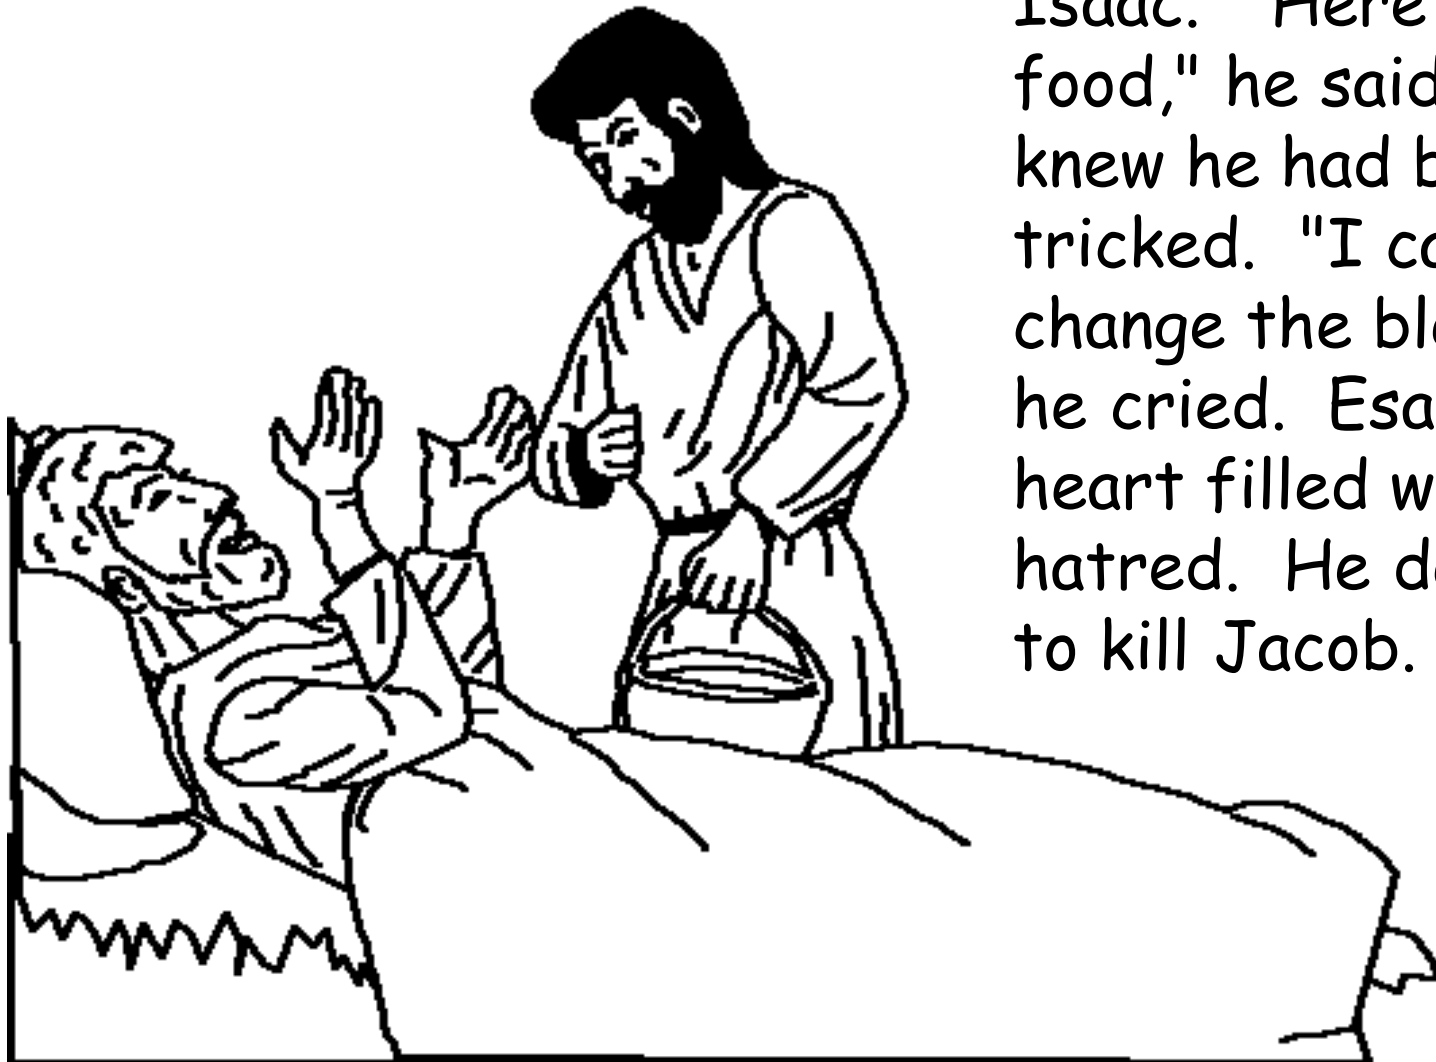

Rebekah had a plan. While she quickly cooked the food Isaac loved, Jacob put on Esau's clothes, and put hairy animal skins on his hands and neck. Isaac did not see well. Perhaps they could deceive him.

Jacob brought the food to Isaac. "You sound like Jacob," Isaac said, "but your hands feel like Esau." After he had eaten the food, Isaac blessed the son kneeling before him.

Just after Jacob left, Esau came to Isaac. "Here's your food," he said. Isaac knew he had been tricked. "I can not change the blessing," he cried. Esau's heart filled with hatred. He decided to kill Jacob.

Rebekah heard Esau's threats. "Go to your uncle's house," she told Jacob, "until your brother forgets what you have done." Isaac agreed that Jacob should seek a wife from his mother's family. So Jacob left home.

Jacob The 'Deceiver'

Did God ever send a baby to your family? How exciting! Isaac and Rebekah must have been doubly (very) joyful. God was going to give them twins.

The babies moved a lot inside Rebekah's tummy. When she prayed to ask God why, God said her two sons would lead two nations - and the younger one would be greater. Usually the firstborn was greater. At last the babies were born.

The twins were not alike. Esau, the older boy, was very hairy and grew up to be good at hunting animals. Jacob was not hairy but smooth skinned. He liked working around home. Father Isaac loved Esau best. Mother loved Jacob more.

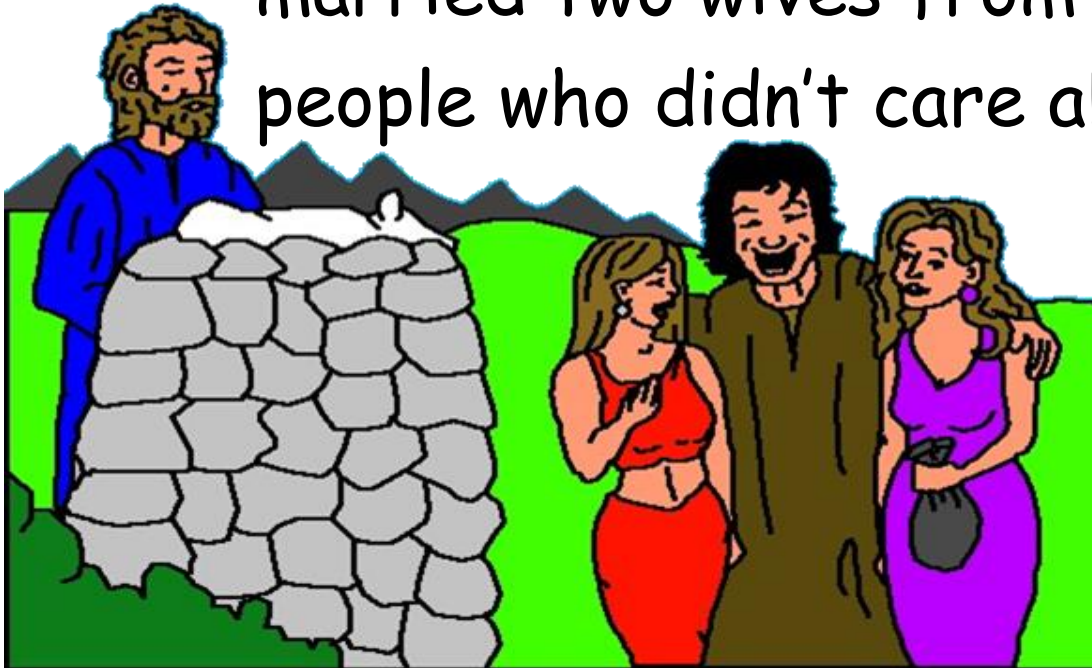

One day, Esau was hungry. "Give me food," he told Jacob. "Sell me the promises God gave to you for being born first," demanded Jacob. Esau did not care about God's promises to the first-born. He agreed to give them to Jacob if he gave him the food he had cooked. Now Jacob would be leader of the family when their father died.

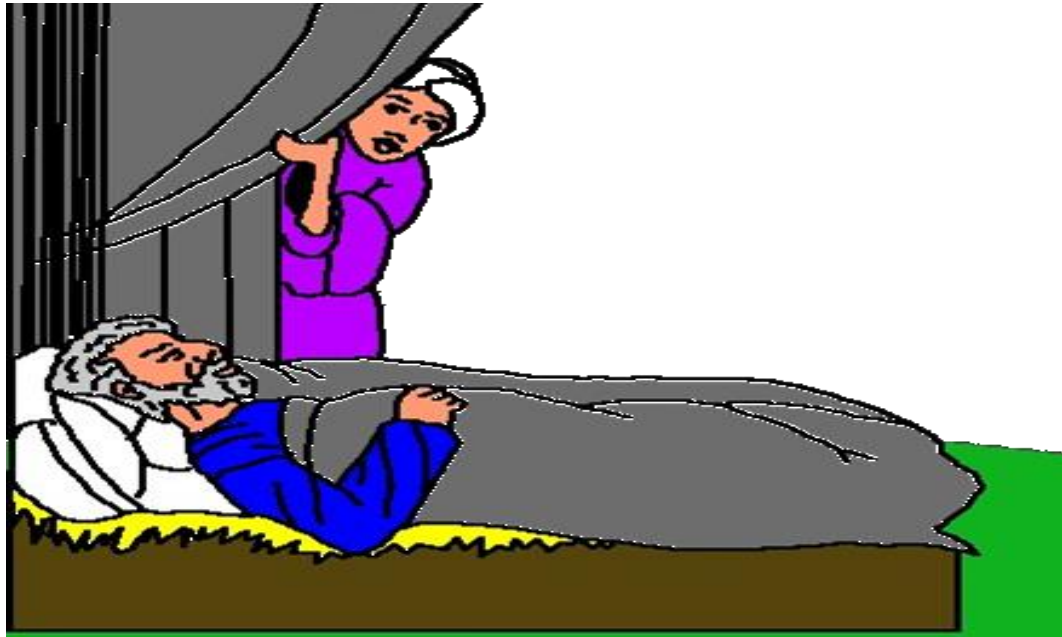

God spoke to Isaac the father of Jacob and Esau one night. He said "I am the God of your father, Abraham. I am with you. I will bless your children." Although Isaac worshipped God, his son Esau married two wives from the Hittites, a people who didn't care about God.

Isaac grew old. One day, he told Esau "Please bring me fresh meat for a special dinner." "Then I will bless you." This special blessing was from father to firstborn son. Esau hurried out to hunt for the meat. But Rebekah had overheard. She wanted Jacob to be blessed, not Esau.

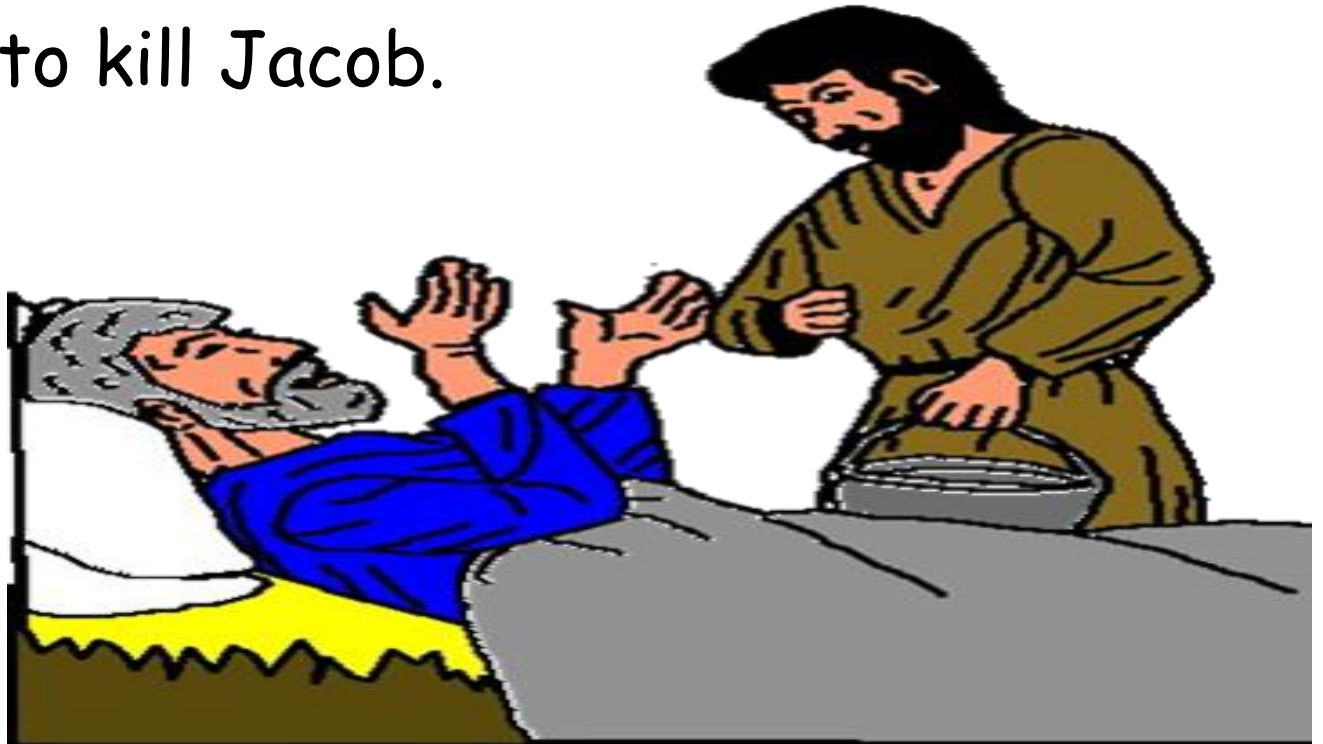

Rebekah had a plan. While she quickly cooked the food Isaac loved, Jacob put on Esau's clothes, and put hairy animal skins on his hands and neck. Isaac did not see well. They wanted to trick Isaac, so he would give Jacob Esau's blessing!

Jacob brought the food to Isaac. "You sound like Jacob," Isaac said "but your hands feel like Esau." After he had eaten the food Isaac blessed the son kneeling before him

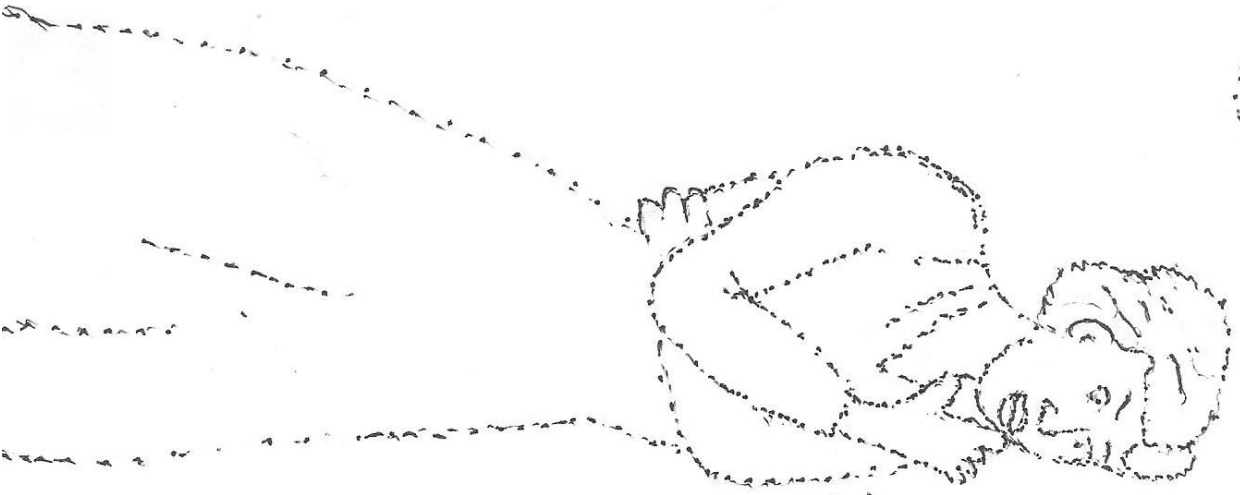

Just after Jacob left, Esau came to Isaac.
"Here's your food," he said. Then Isaac knew he had been tricked. "I can not change the blessing," he cried. Esau's heart filled with hatred because of what his brother had done.
He decided to kill Jacob.

Rebekah heard that Esau wanted to kill his brother. "Go to your uncle's house," she told Jacob, "until your brother forgets what you have done." Rebekah told his father that Jacob should go to seek a wife from her family. Isaac agreed. So Jacob left home.
